Marissa Taylor elected to WSGLT Board of Directors

January 13, 2022 - The Wyoming Stock Growers Land Trust announced today that Marissa Taylor has been elected to the organization's Board of Directors.

A Lonetree resident, Marissa is the Business Manager for Lonetree Ranch, located in southwest Wyoming. The ranch strives to balance the art and science of ranching by mixing age-old practices with modern knowledge and ideas. Marissa is also a partner in Northway Ranch Services, which specializes in providing ranchers with administrative support.

Before returning to the family ranch, Marissa worked for Rio Tinto Australia as a Social and Economic Impact Analyst. There, Marissa created and institutionalized a framework for evaluating connection and importance of stakeholder networks. Her experience with both mining and ranching have provided Marissa with a foundation to better understand man's connection to country.

Marissa holds a B.A. in Management from the University of the Pacific and an International MBA from the University of Denver.

We look forward to having Marissa's insight and knowledge on our board as we work to conserve Wyoming's working agricultural lands.

Members of the Board of Directors are responsible for establishing the organization's mission, determining strategic direction, setting policies to carry out the mission, and oversight of the organization's finances.
